REALTY DEAL CLOSED.

Lichtenstein Becomes Owner of Deere Property on Market Street.

The new realty deal mentioned yes-terday in the "News" as about to be closed by Mr. Lichtenstein, was completed last evening, when the deeds were signed, and it was announced that he had become possessed of the Charles Deere property on Market street immediately west of the Federal building, 100 ft. front, and 132 ft. deep, the price paid being $55,000. This makes the value of Mr. Lichtenstein's down town purchases approximate $200,000. It is proposed to erect a business structure there of considerable size. As ture there of considerable size. As he owns 99x165 ft. to the south of this latest buy, Mr. Lichtenstein now holds a large slice of land right through the Another deal was started last even-ing, when M. S. Browning, H. H. Ro-lapp and David Eccles of Ogden took an option on the W. H. Dickson property, 40 rods wide and running east and west through the block bounded by Second and Third West, and Sec-ond and Fourth South streets. The property is held at $50,000, and the option expires Jan. 2.

BERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

About two months ago our baby girl had measles which settled on her lungs and at last resulted in a severe attack of bronchitis. We had two doctors but no relief was obtained. Everybody thought she would die. I went to eight different stores to find a certain remedy which had been recommended to me and falled to get it, when one of the storekeepers insisted that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did so and our baby is alive and well today—Geo, W. Spence, Holly springs, N. C. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy aiways cures and is pleasant and safe to tak., For sale by all druggists.

ARTHUR BROWN IS LAID TO REST

Simple. But Impressive Services Over Remains of Former Senator.

FRIENDS IN PLENTY THERE.

Pribute Paid to Departed by Rev. P. A. Simpkin and Judge William H. King.

In the twilight shadows of yesterday afternoon the remains of the late Arthur Brown were laid to rest in Mt. Olivet cemetery, the new grave being mounded over nearby the resting place of his second wife. Isabelle Cameron Brown, and beside the grave of his lifeong friend, David McLaughlin.

Friends there were in plenty to present at the last scene of his earthly career. The young men at the bar he had helped were there, and those who admired the touch of genius that had lighted up his more brilliant moments when practising as a lawyer and statesman, as well as the professional friends who had refused to turn from him through the ylcissitudes of his more intimate personal life.

JUDGE KING'S TRIBUTE.

The funeral service was held at the The funeral service was held at the family residence, the speakers being Rev. P. A. Simpkin, who said the Odd. Fellows' service for the dead, and Judge William H. King, who had been in Congress while Arthur Brown was a senator. He spoke eloquently of the brilliant career of the senator before the bar of Utah and of Michigan, where he was rated as one of the most brilliant legal minds in the profession. Floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. At the foot of the casket was a bed of roses and carnations with the inscription "Father." A basket of roses was the tribute of the Kalamazoo bar, while there was a wreath from the Odd Fellows, and a large number the Odd Fellows, and a large number of personal offerings.

The services opened with a quartet selection, "I Need Thee Every Hour," sung by Messrs, Graham, Ashworth Squires and Christopherson, followed by a short prayer and scripture reading from the nineteenth psalm and twelfth chapter of Ecclesiastes.

REV. P. A. SIMPKIN.

Rev. P. A. Simpkin spoke briefly but with feeling, and with a message of sympathy for the bereaved children. In part he said: "You all knew this man, whose brain was touched with genius, and whose life went out hastily by the hand of human hate. We cannot but sorrow for the life which was brought to so for the life which was brought to so sudden a close. It is not for me to dwell upon his weaknesses. Rather it is my province as a minister to speak words of sympathy to the bereaved ones. We are all only but children or a day. No one can tell what the future may bring forth. Only a few days ago. I met Arthur Brown on the street. To-day we are assembled at his bier to participate in the last sad rites at his funeral. The things of this life are funeral. The things of this life are shallow in an hour like this. If the dead could speak he would say to all present. "Go forth, do your duty, and make life beautiful."

BRILLIANT CAREER.

Judge King followed with tribute to the brilliant career of Senator Brown in public life, with emphasis on the mental power he displayed in analyzing difficult legal problems. Judge

Kink said in part:

"On this sad occasion we permit our hearts to go out in tenderness. I was the friend of Arthur Brown when in the days of his prosperity honors came to him. I was his friend in the days of his adversity, and I am his friend to-day. He was born in Michigan about 63 years ago. In that state he was ed-ucated and admitted to the bar. He was a born genius, and by the intellect soon gained distinction at the bar of his native state. It was said of him by Don M. Dickinson and other brilliant lawyers of Michigan that no more brillawyers of Michigan that he more bru-liant lawyer was ever called to the bar of Michigan. He loved to dwell on the genius and intellectual achievements of great men with whom he was ac-qualited, such men as Judge Cooly, ex-United States Senator Christian and others of his state, and when he would expectate in admiration of those bobbe. expatiate in admiration of those 'noble great ones gone, I thought then as I think now, that he was the equal of them all. Utah has never had a greater genius or a lawyer of more spicndid ability.

TRUE TO FRIENDS

Of his public life in Utah Judge King said that he became a great factor in Utah politics. He always used to say that he get his Republicanism from Horace Greely, W. H. Seward and Abraham Lincoln. In speaking of Lincoln he always said but one greater man had lived in all the world and that was Christ. He was true to his friends, as he was honorable in his profession. was Christ. He was true to his friends, as he was honoruble in his profession. In politics he fought for principle. When elected to be one of Utah's first senators he went fully equipped to discharge with signal ability the duties of the exalted office to which he had been chosen. During his short term as senator he came to enjoy the respect and admiration of the older members of the senate. Cushman K. Davis and other notable senators said they regarded him as a profound student of political economy. His arguments were not only those of a lawyer, but of a statesman.

FRIEND TO YOUNG MEN "His standing at the bar was par excellent," continued Judge King. "He had many lovable traits of character. He loved young manhood, loved their society, helped many on the road to success in the profession, and was always kindly in his demeanor to the humblest brother at the bar. Decessed. ways kindly in his demeanor to the humblest brother at the bar. Deceased was a man whom you always knew where to find. He was always in the open. And of him more than most men the world knew his greatness and his

"Arthur Brown," he said, "was possessed of a religious character and had often said that he was a Calvinist—a Follower of Knox. In kindness we speak of the man in whom there was so much to admire. In sympathy our hearts go out to his bereaved children."

ODD FELLOWS SERVICE. Following the oration, the quartet sang "Not Now But in the Coming Years;" after which the funeral procession commenced its march to Mt. Olivet. At the grave the Odd Fellows' service was said, and a short prayer was offered.

The palibearers were William M. Bradley, E. M. Allison, Jr., Captain E. A. Wedgewood, Judge T. D. Lewis, Judge C. C. Dey and Judge D. H. Wen-

The procession consisted of 16 car-riages. In the carriage occupied by Alice and Max Brown were also Wake-land Dix, a cousin of Miss Alice Brown, and H. C. Ayers of Nephi, a cousin of

COLD BLOODED MURDER

Brutal Husband Deliberately Shot and Killed His Wife.

Bluffs, a small town on the Union

Bluffs, a small town on the Union Pacific 30 miles east of Cheyenne, is in fail here a self-confessed murderer of his wife, whom he shot down in cold blood Sunday afternoon. Carison will probably plead guilty to manslaughter and if his case does not go to jury trial he can be sentenced to the penitentlary for 25 years, the extreme penalty for the crime.

The Carlsons came to Pine Bluffs two years ago from Iowa, and opened a boarding house. Carlson is a big, husky fellow, and as lazy as he is strong. His wife, a slim little thing, old almost all of the work, in addition to caring for five children ranging in age from 2 to 8 years. Carlson and his wife quarreled and it was frequently reported that Carlson beat her. Two weeks ago he was arrested and fined in the justice court for heating Mrs. Carlson.

Sunday morning Carlson said he wished to use their horse and bugsy to show a man over some land in the vicinity of Pine Bluffs. Mrs. Carlson said she wished to use the team, that Sunday was the only day she had to get out, etc. Carlson paid no attention to his wife's request, but when he returned in the evening Mrs. Carlson beating to come and arrest him.

"What for?" asked Carlson.

"Because you have been mean to me and I want you prosecuted."

"Because you have been mean to and I want you prosecuted." "Because you have been mean to me and I want you prosecuted."

"Well darn you, you will never call for another sheriff," replied the burley brute, and going into his son's bed chamber he secured a 22 rifle and returning to where his wife was seated in a rocking chair, shot her through the head. The bullet entered just above the left eye, and Mrs. Carlson died two hours later without gaining consciousness, Carlson then attempted to beat out his brains with a sledge nammer. Failing in this he stabbed himself several times with a butcher knife. When neighbors arrived he was making frantic efforts to end his own life, and was overpowered only after a hard struggle. He begged his neighbors to kill him. En route to Cheyenne with Sheriff Smalley Carlson admitted the killing, saying: "That was cold blooded murder ali right, and I am willing to stretch for it."

Since reaching the county jail Carlson will not talk about his trouble, and all efforts of County Atty Ross son will not talk about his trouble, and all efforts of County Atty. Ross to get a statement failed. Mrs. Carlson will be buried tomorthe corner of Main and Fourth South streets last evening averted what might have been a double tragedy. David B. Leyson and his wife vera met cace other with loaded revolvers and with the avowed intention of shooting each office. David Leyson is a clerk in the employ of the short Line rainrad, while his wife is an inmate of a Commercial street resort, since they were married at Farmington, two years ago, they have not enjoyed the marital biles that they had expected. Matters rapidly grew worse and they separated. Vera Leyson going to spokane, where she again took up the lower life. Here she repleased to the lower life. Here she repleased to sait Lake and opened a house of her own at 50 commercial street, but this did not prove successful, and she then attempted suicide. She falled in this attempt as she did in the second trial some six weeks ago. She places the blame for her condition and the snameful life she has been leading upon her former husband. Leyson filed his suit for divorce on Nov. If in the Third district court. The case has not yet come up for trial. In the complaint he alleges that she deserted him, and has since lead a wild and disreputable life. They will appear before Judge Dieht this afternoon upon the charge of carrying concealed weapons.
